Measur LeClair & Lesser, lessees of the Carman Opera House, with it to be under stood that the house is rather under their control and that their business—which they hope to make a success of, is unfortunate effort will do so as to enter to the administration of the Belleville.

Miss Emily Barker, the empty and accomplished comedienne, will be at the

at the Carman Opera House, Tuesday evening next. Miss Barker has a new comedy this season called "Our Flat," which comes with her latest appearance at the Carman Opera House. Her new comedy, "Our Flat," is a comedy of the broad farce type, for the reason that it makes people laugh long and loud by the similarity and incongruity of its story. It has been a great success in London, some 20 performances having been given there already, with a prospect that the limit of popularity will not be reached for some time to come. Miss Barker will be assisted by

Will Mandeville, Geo. W. Parsons, Philip

W. H. H. D. Jones, Walter Barr, Anita

Verni, Elizabeth Rossell and Chances O'Neil.

The rest of the cast is made up of untested players.

Brief Notes of the Happenings

in the Arena of Legitimate

FOOTBALL.

There promises to be a big boom in foot ball in the city this season, as already four clubs have signalled their intention of playing for the city championship.

First, Albert C. Jones, City and O.R.C.

teams are expected to form the league.

The Central football team organized yesterday afternoon with the following

President—R. P. Milburn.

Secretary—Armstrong.

Captain—W. L. McCall.

Manager—G. H. McCall.

The team have already received challenges from the High School teams of Napane and Cobourg. The Centrals have a good deal of material for a team, and it is safe to say that they will be the last in the league.

A meeting of the members of the Central and City football teams, and any other interested in the game, will be held in the hall of the Institute Hall at 7 o'clock tonight, for the purpose of considering the amalgamation of the two teams into one city team. It is thought best to have one city team in the league instead of two, as there generally is because both teams belong to the city. Let there be a big turnout to night and push football along this season.

BASE BALL.

"Your uncle Sam, the frisky 'Cot' of 17 summers, says he will catch regular next year for Chicago.

Joyce will manage the New Yorks next season.

Three of the magnates in other cities—

Brook, Bush and Abell—are shareholders in the New Yorks club.

BOISSE AND TRACK.

Riley Graman, the pugler, has been replied by the Jockey Club for giving present to the jockeys.

Joe, the famous two-year-old, broke the race record for his age at Boston

Wednesday last. He won the race in 1:20, 2:40, made an exhibition race on a mile track with high wheel sulky.

Peterborough defeated Orilla in their lancashire match 5 to 1, and will play in the final for the championship.

A tripe is being built for a team of twenty in Buffalo. The machine has been in front and one behind, and the man will ride in two tracks.

Obituary.

EDWIN CASWELL.

The following extract from a lengthy obituary, published in the Toronto Star of Monday last, is of interest to our readers, as it is the obituary of a man who was a resident of this city.

Major Caswell, of this city, whose sudden death at his home in London was recorded in these columns, will be read with interest in this district to whom he was known.

The deceased gentleman was an Englishman by birth; he came to England with himself, and was identified with the early history of the town. He first went into business life with Mr. J.

Brown, and was engaged for some years, afterwards embarking himself in a grocery business, which he conducted very successfully for several years. It was

A FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILLED.

Both Tracks Blocked—Traffic Delayed—

A Broken Axle Caused the Derailment.

A through freight on the Grand Trunk came to grief about 4 1/2 this morning at a short distance west of Shawanville.

The train, which was composed largely of fruit cars, all loaded, left the station about four o'clock in the evening of Wednesday last. When about two miles this side of Shawanville, the under one of the cars broke and there was a general crash. Six cars left the track and were more or less badly mangled.

Trainsmen, Lewis, who were on the auxiliary from this city, soon reached the spot and began the work of clearing the track, which blocked both tracks. At eleven o'clock the freight train was waiting to get out and five or six were on the east side of the track.

The next morning this morning was cancelled. The 11:03 train was as far as the track, where it stalled till about clear. The damage to rolling stock was heavy, and a large quantity of freight was destroyed. The accident happened at a very important time, as the freight traffic is heavy over the line, and the one track was cleared about noon.

Experiments in Clothing.

There have been customers of the Oak

Hall for years who have never thought of buying clothing elsewhere, always good, no complaints to make, but just thought they would try this time and see what they could do. They bought a pair of trousers, a shirt, a vest, a pair of shoes, and a hat, and they had no right to lose. Now you don't need to make experiments in buying clothing. There is one place you are sure of getting the right thing.

PERSONAL.

Ald. Falkner has returned from Hamilton.

Miss Carr went to Kingston to-day to visit friends.

Miss Fannie Lingham leaves to-morrow for England.

Arthur Coby, London, Eng., is registered at the Quince.

C.P.R. Strikers Making It Disagreeable For Them.

One operator was taken a cold bath and another was taken a cold shower.

The C.P.R. is having a difficult time in filling the stations vacated by the striking operators between North Bay and Winnipeg.

As far as the non-striking men arrive at their points they are driven out by the strikers, who seem to be all in sympathy with the employees who have quit work.

Some of the tales of hardship told by the few returning men who have been able to get back to their homes, are as follows: On the morning of the 2nd of October, a train of the C.P.R. was stopped by the strikers at a point near North Bay.

From North Bay, the train was stopped by the strikers at a point near North Bay. The strikers were very much annoyed by the strikers who were very much annoyed by the strikers.

EDITORIAL BRIEVES.

Mr. Laurier's Government have been, according to the allegations, requiring and obtaining a statement regarding the telegraph strike. Now the question is, do Mr. Laurier and his colleagues desire to have the telegraph service, Pacific cable and other important public questions, thereby gaining time? Or do he and his followers really contemplate facing a law that will in future rid the country of strikes and their accompanying dangers? If the latter be their intention and we will give them the benefit of the doubt, they must be very careful not to give too much power to the employees of the telegraph. The employees must be protected equally as well as the employer. The doing away with the necessity of strikes would be a grand thing for everybody as every strike brings with it petitions and frequently the loss of life.

The number for Liquor, in a letter to his Winnipeg paper, which is republished in the Globe, informs the public that the P. P. (Provincial Premier) Government of Ontario intend doing great things for the North West. According to the letter in question, they are going to fill the country with people. This is to be done by undoing all the "wrong" and "bad" policies of the late Conservative Administration. Perhaps they will undo that which they consider bad policy and start in filling the country up, in the same way as we have done the C. P. Railway in sections. A summer railway, and a summer policy. "We are waiting."

Feed the Nerves

Upon pure, rich blood and you need not fear nervous prostration. Nerves are weak when they are impurely and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes from the kidneys. Therefore, they will take the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.

Head's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

Again Ready for an Edge.

Barbers say that the best razors in their shops sometimes become temporarily rusty, but not from breakage or injury, but from the loss of the capacity to receive an edge. At such times having a razor sharpened is not a luxury, but a necessity. The barber knows what to do. He simply places the razor in the case and lets it stand for a few weeks he brings it forth again, sharp as it without trouble, and finds that it cuts as well as ever.

Cutlery and machinists are familiar with this peculiarity of iron and steel. Metals that are called upon to endure strain, especially with motion and friction, must have periods of rest entirely irrespective of any outward signs of weakness or fracture. They must have a nap; they must rest to sleep.

If iron and steel must sleep, how about man and woman—how about nerves, muscles, and minds? "Why, of course," you say, "we all know. We all know what I can see how much we know."

At my left hand as I write are two short letters, both from women. Neither of them is the other has written. They live in different parts of the country, and are not probably personally acquainted. Their letters are almost identical in substance, and by a strange coincidence both contain the following sentence: "My sleep is disturbed with horrible dreams."

Now, whatever disturbs sleep is an enemy of man; and whatever disturbs sleep in a woman of cases (and continuously) disturbs human sanity, human health, and human life—so to other things, it is an enemy of power. What, then, did I infer from an office for these two women? They will tell us one after the other.

The first says: "In April, 1897, I felt tired and worn out. I had been late in my month and a chilly-cold, I could eat but little, and even that I could not digest. My sleep was so disturbed with horrible dreams, that I got little rest at night. Then my legs began to ache and painful began to swell. For thirteen weeks I could hardly get across the floor. Later on I had a bad cold and cough and could scarcely breathe. I was in this condition over a year. I took blood mixtures and other remedies and got no relief. Then I read of Mother Seign's Curative Syrup, and a few weeks use of it restored my appetite, my strength, and my sleep. All my bad symptoms were left me, and I now feel like a new creature again. (Signed) Mrs. Elizabeth Clarkson, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., October 18, 1896."

The second lady says: "In the early part of 1897 I became ill without understanding the reason why. My mouth tasted badly, my tongue was turned, my appetite poor, and I had strange pains in the chest, sides, and between the shoulders. I lost a deal of sleep, and my rest was disturbed with horrible dreams. I could not shake off the profound nervous depression that had seized upon me, and took no pleasure or interest in anything. I was too ill to go about, but I did not go to bed altogether. I had been in this miserable condition for eighteen months when I first read of Mother Seign's Syrup, and what it had done for other persons afflicted and oppressed as I was. I bought the Syrup at Mr. Wells Store in Salisbury, and after taking it a few days I felt relieved, and after using two bottles I was enjoying good health and good sleep again. (Signed) Mrs. Amelia Whitlock, The Green, Brighton, Wigan, Lancashire, Berkshire, 7th, 1896."

If the disease from which these ladies suffered—indigestion and dyspepsia—were to be dreaded for no other reason, its fearful effects on the nervous system would brand it as the most dangerous of all diseases known to man. It is the fruitful source of "horrible dreams" and of the nervous disorders which they are the cause. Let women please and remember the cure. For, if cold, indigestion, and sleep, all the more must human beings have their regular hours in which both body and mind be beyond life's labor and care.

Tritty's Foot.

The step 'twixt the sublime and ridiculous is quickly made. Sublime literature proceeds from more generous ideas than those of the foot, and the numerous worshippers that have been and are being made of it have known the big toe of the foot, when reason more comes to the aid of the imagination, and all the production of the genus Man were perished. At the way to the sublime, the reading Tritty has highly it commended. Impossible the Illustration which realizes Tritty's foot would not be worthy of houses if it were by some of the great poets. The Patriot and Cart Editor.

It was nervous, tired, irritable and cross. Kari's Clover Root tea was made and happy—Mrs. E. B. Womack. Sold by Alex. Hay.

HUNGERFORD FALL FAIR.

THE ANNUAL SHOW AT TWICKED A GREAT SUCCESS.

Fine Weather and a Large Attendance.—Every Department Well Filled With Exhibits—Fruit of Very Fine Quality—The Officers of the Society—The Prize List.

The annual fair of the Hungerford Agricultural Society was held at the village of Twick, on Thursday, October 1st, and was in many respects the best ever held by the Society. The weather was all that could be desired and consequently the attendance was large.

The quality of the exhibits would have done honor to a much larger show and nearly every class was well filled. There was a very large display of grain of all kinds and exhibits were the best ever shown at Twick. The roots shown were extra large, and considering the dry season the whole display of vegetables was a most creditable one. While it is saying a good deal, the display of apples was superior in size and quality to those shown in Toronto.

The groups and other fruits shown were very few. The exhibit of fancy work was very large and of superior quality.

All sorts of ducks were well represented, but the animals were not quite up to the mark, owing to the poor pasture during August and September.

There were a few good horses, but some excellent animals were shown. Of carriage and general purpose horses there were, as usual, a large number and among them some splendid animals. The horses of the Hungerford are a rivalry among them in this line.

The officers of the Society deserve credit for the efforts they have put forth and the obstacles they have overcome to bring their annual show to the front rank. Following are the officers:

Dangers of Delay.

If we were allowed to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow from neglecting to cure our lungs, but with a single eye to the present, we could hardly compare he; could we realize our danger, how would we be able to resist the temptation to buy only a tiny ounce when the monster disease has fastened its fangs upon our lungs and is ready to devour them? The patient follows a neglected cold if it is not dislodged at once. It is the first step toward consumption, and many other diseases of the nature. It is worse than influenza, and it is more dangerous than pneumonia. The good remedy available for this first stage of the disease is the only one that has no dangers for all diseases of the lungs and lungs, is Dickie's Anti-Consumptive Remedy. It is designed to combat the first medicinal breath, which exert a most powerful influence upon the lungs, the trachea and other organs of the lungs and chest, it promotes free and easy expiration, and it is the only remedy that cures the disease from the system.

to follow. To one who attends the leading shows the temptation to breed for prize-winners is very strong. The display of such birds is a tremendous inducement to every sportsman and enthusiast as each particular breed is seen in the pink of condition and with the most attractive surroundings. If the exhibitor is a sportsman, he will go to the Hantane, he will probably be carried away with their great variety and the wonderful beauty of their plumage. If he is a breeder, and he proceeds, he may come next to the Hamburgs, which rival almost all the other breeds in stock and effectiveness. Then, in the morning, the Houdans, which are the variety of pearl-eyed, and with their peculiar attractive head-feathering he is lost in admiration. Next, he comes to the Black Spanish and Dorkings. The variety of solid colors is something new this time, and with their brilliant

As a commercial traveller I suffered, and how I have suffered!—GENTLEMAN.—About five years ago I was afflicted with a violent dysentery, and for about three years suffered almost continually from this terrible complaint. I was treated by the best physicians in the West, Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but without success. I was so weak and so worn, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE SYRUP. I took a glassful three times a day, and, lo! I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured. I have since used it as a preventive, and feel confident that a cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this disease, I can say, "Buy and try Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE-DECOUVER, believing that the persistent use of it will cure you."

These, with their beautiful plumage and erect carriage, and with the knowledge that some of them can fight, (which fact always seems to appeal to an amateur) put him again into a condition of doubt. In his next turn he meets something entirely new, the most modern of the Wyandottes and Dominiques. Here the more sober colors and unpretentious exteriors incline his mind into a more practical channel. His last turn brings

Not family living in a filthy country should be without Parlane's Vegetable Pills. These pills will keep the liver active, cleanse the stomach, and give the blood a healthy and pleasant color. Mr. J. L. Price, Shoals, Mo., Co. Ind., writes: "I have tried a box of Parlane's vegetable pills, and find them a medicine for fever and ague I have ever used."

Work has been begun on the Auvergne, N. Y., waterworks system.

Dr. J. C. Parlane's Pills are constantly receiving letters similar to the following: "I have used Parlane's A. B. Beam, Waterloo, Ont., writes: 'I have used any medicine that you could give me, but I have not found any that will cure my complaint. The relief after using them is such that I feel that I can never do without Parlane's vegetable pills can give me.'"

Look upward, and men will gaze with astonishment.

Optimism! This is unhappily an age of pessimism, but there is one point upon which persons acquainted with the subject of this advertisement are all agreed, and that is, in a medicine which can be relied upon to purify the blood, and drive out all the various kinds, and benefit any inflamed or diseased organ, it is a medicine to be used.

Then take strips 1-4-inch thick, 3 inches wide and 18 inches long, point one end and cut the other end at the sides of the trough, leaving a space between pickets of 1 1/2 inches for the fowls to pass through. The strips give a complete and durable fence when the weak have equal chance with the strong, and no waste of space. The fowls are kept in the yard when chicks are about six weeks old. All wet feed is given in the racks. I always feed fowls and chicks separately. —G. C. HARRIS.

How to Cure Black Knot.
A remedy for black knot in the cherry, plum, etc., is to cut off the most seriously affected branches below the diseased part, and then wash the limb thoroughly with the surface of the limb, then paint all the scars with any kind of cheap paint that does not wash off. I have used a mixture of equal parts of paris green and a pound of oil. This method has proved effective among Connecticut Shakers. Many others recommend painting the wound with raw linseed oil without any mixture. —G. C. HARRIS.

Among the many foes to human health and happiness Dyspepsia and Constipation are their twin enemies greatly to be feared. They are the most common ailments of the human race, however no danger need be anticipated, as every dose brings the sufferer a long step towards the road to perfect health and strength, and a permanent cure always results.

plan is to entirely cut off every affected branch at a good distance below the black knot, painting the wound with a good disinfectant.

Be careful not to have any sap or juice on the knife from near the black knot when you cut off the limb, as this will cause the knife to become infected with germs of black knot. The Massachusetts Experiment Station has given much attention to this pest for many years, and has introduced a method of painting the plum knots with kerosene during the summer and removing from the trees and burning early in the fall. This method has been found to be effective, the disease can be held in check.

By combining the above treatment with pruning, the disease can be practically eradicated from orchards that

Shiloh's Cure," writes M Huntville, Ala. Sold b

So she sat, in forced, not exhausted silence at the table, that constant and essential element in every story of London, where the vulgar and the tragic jostle on and amidst the every turn, scintillated at the entrance of a palatial hotel, towering above them like an illuminated mountain against the black sky.

"Speak to the manager, if you please?" asked Cynthia, in a voice as if with an air that Marlowe soulfully recognized as her companion's, so quiet were they, and so suddenly excited. "We have had a terrible misfortune, my friend and I. We have just come from the Continent, by the express, and have somehow managed to leave all our luggage at Dover, unless you can get it from the Continent, we have no strategy. It passed the Customs, I assure you. Can you receive it until it arrives?"

The official, who had come forward

"I am very sorry. Have you not been graped?" he asked.

"Of course, as soon as we arrived. We are passing through town on our way to Scotland. We would go on to-night; but we can't leave without our luggage, and my friend is too tired to travel without a night's rest. We had a bad passage——"

"I am sorry, indeed, ladies. But I'm afraid the house is full."

"Ah—I told you how it would be," said Cynthia, turning to Marion with a forced sigh. "Two women might as well leave their characters behind them in their boxes."

"Of course you are right," continued Cynthia. "Business is business—I quite understand. We might be—anybody as far as you can tell. When is the next train to Edinburgh? I hope not too soon for a cup of tea?"

There was pathos in her voice that would have melted a heart of stone. I know not how it would have fared with her had she the official been of her own sex; but few are the men who can associate sympathy with Cynthia's pleading tones or Marion's gray eyes. Nor were their clothes

"We have nothing but what you see," said Cynthia. She gave no reason; that would have been to admit that one was required. "If you could have taken us in, we should have had to borrow everything—even brushes and combs."
"Perhaps—a deposit—"
Voice and eyes were beginning to tell.

"No; they were not adventuresses after all. Young women so ready to cover tonight's bill five times over would of course have lost their luggage; and the more he saw and heard, the more certain of their transparent good faith their inquisitor became.

"Two pounds will be ample, ladies," said he, having done enough for dragon-dance. "I'll send the chambermaid at once if you will be kind enough to write your names here."

"What shall I put down, Marion?" she asked, suddenly remembering that in these

"Then - Palazzo Sparafucile, Genoa. If you still suspect us, you can telegraph at once to the Rev. John Adam, care of Count Mirski, to whom the palazzo belongs. Shall I add the cost of the telegram to the three

"As if anybody who really loves action would go on the stage!" she said when her laugh was a little satisfied. "But howgrave you look! Are you sorrowing after those knee-seconds? Are you?"

But Marion still looked grave. Into that labyrinth of warfare with the world of her dead mother, and of Guy Dornett, and she had fallen—a labyrinth which contradicted her father, and of which the clue ran every moment baffling her more and more. so abjectly helpless—when she fled from Piggot's Town, she seemed to have lost even her will behind her. If she was destined to the only life that seemed open before her, in which her whole duty was to be owed to crime, at least she might have been allowed the privilege of entering upon it with open eyes, instead of drifting into it like a child. . . . Well, she had done one good thing in her life: she had saved Guy from a fatal marriage.

the future companion of swindlers and thieves. If among them lay duty, so be it; he had no impersonal reverence for law. At least he was free.

As the two girls came down stairs on their way to their sitting-room, they passed a young man who gave them a second look which every man is entitled to give any woman anywhere, if he has eyes at all. Unnoticed by them, however, he gave them a third, and then strolled to the open book in the hall where their names

A Man Made Happy.—GENTLEMEN.—For years I had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach as almost unbearable and life only seemed drag to me. When I would go to sleep I could have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest

I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I know this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that is especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. MOCK PARLIAMENT.

A HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL OPENING
LAST NIGHT.

The House convened to Rejoice. Artists decorations of the Chamber. The Speech from the Throne. The Address by the Deputies. Sir Mackenzie Bovell's speech.

Mock Parliament opened last night under exceedingly favorable auspices.
The seating capacity was 500. Fifty more seats were borrowed, and numbers turned away, being unable to obtain admission. One hundred and twenty-five were present at one of the most brilliant evenings of the season.

The room was artistically gotten up with flags and bunting, the portraits of the Queen, Mr. Laurier, Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir
John A. Macdonald, and Sir Mackenzie Bovell being hung upon the walls.

Precisely at 8 o'clock Speaker Bovell was escorted to his chair.

The House standing, Governor General Sir Mackenzie Bovell, accompanied by ladies de camp Clapp and Osborne, entered and delivered the speech from the throne, as previously published in these columns.
It was then taken up and discussed by Hon. Frederick Banting and Mr. Bovell.

Mr. Bovell, then, and Mr. Bovell, on behalf of the Government and Hon. Mowat, Davis, Mikel, Noel and Moul for the Opposition.
The speaker, the 100th house on marriage, and the Attorney General were the chief points of attack.

Two maiden speeches were delivered and much more wit as well as display.

The proceedings of the House were suspended, and Sir Mackenzie Bovell was called upon to speak and responded in his state, which consisted of a review of the after which the House adjourned, thus ending the first meeting of the season.

MR. TREE'S NEW PLAY.

A Chat with the Author of "Rags" &
"The Middy".
(Birmingham Mail, Oct. 21.)

Mr. Gilbert Parker is in Birmingham this week putting the last touches to his new play, "The Middy". The play has been written for Mr. Tree's company. The play will be ready to go to the theatre to-morrow, and about the middle of next month the company and the author will start for America, to produce it in New York. It is a dramatic version of Mr.
Parker's latest success, "The Middy".

The "Middy", which, published in May, is ready in its fifth edition. The story deals with the conquest of Quebec, and shows how our Captain Robert Moray, sometime an officer of the Virginia Regiment, became entangled in high intrigue, and was in part of the designs of Monsieur Du-laine, an officer of the King of France. The story attracted Mr. Tree, the character of Dulaine, improved him, and Mr. Parker has spent the whole summer in writing the play, which, it should be understood, is entirely his own, and was not written in collaboration. Mr. Tree will call Dullaine, and Miss Kate Barker the part of Alma.

In reply to a representative of the Mail, Mr. Parker said, "No, this is not my first play. Most people know me as a novelist, and particularly in Birmingham, will remember George Rignold, the famous Henry V., I wrote three plays for him in Australia.
That was in 1887-7. I was a mere boy at the time, but the experience I had in writing with an actor of the old school, whose knowledge of stagecraft was complete and perfect, gave me an insight into dramatic methods, and the practical working of the stage, which cannot be acquired in any other way. I wrote not as a novelist, but as a dramatist, and now a dramatist again.
The play is not a dramatization of the book.
It is a drama, founded on the story, but it would be impossible to merely "adapt" the novel for stage purposes. Certain events, incidents, and situations are used from the book, where convenient, and the main characters are retained, distinct, and as they actually move in the story of course, the main lines of the story are, of course, but some of the incidents are quite new, and characters are introduced who are not in the book at all."

Testing by a natural transition to Mr.
Parker's Canadian stories, the novelist admitted that to a great extent he was digging in virgin soil. "I am a singleling, to my mind, that all the history of Canada has produced only one really natural work of fiction. I mean 'The Middy'.
The 'Middy' is a veritable mine of information and research, a powerful and admirable piece of composition, and a story of the world to read, and yet one to which I wish to pay my earnest tribute. It is a man's story, and it is a story of the world to read, and yet one to which I wish to pay my earnest tribute. It is a man's story, and it is a story of the world to read, and bute. It is a man's story, and it is a story sons was a licensed practitioner in 1894.

Detective Thos. Wasson swore that he knew the defendant, and that he served him with notice on Oct. 6th. He also said he received a letter from him about a week later. He was asked how he became connected with the case? Mr. Porter, for the defence, objected, on the ground that no specific charge had been given in the notice.
The objection was overruled. Dr. Parsons said he had had dealings with the doctor Oct. 17, '94; a letter was produced and received. The letter stated that "there was a regular nest of unlicensed and unqualified men in the district practicing medicine, and not to give his name away." Signed, C. J. Parsons.

Upon receiving this Wasson sent detective Brown down, and a number of prosecutions followed by reason of this information given by Dr. Parsons. At this point E. G. Porter raised an objection. Dr. Ray allowed without a precept, stating that all Mr. Porter's objections would be ruled. Upon report from detective Brown to Wasson it was stated that Dr. Parsons was receiving money from the protected parties, saying he would not interfere with them. Affidavits were produced showing this to be correct. Detective Wasson stated that he took steps to bring the case before the authorities and submitted the case to E. B. Oker, who made the charges. At the time it occurred Dr. Parsons could not be located, but was subsequently found at Levan, on the Kingston & Parke's railway. The detective received a letter from the doctor on Oct. 7, '96, giving his defence and stating that he was his intention to give up medical practice, but since then, as the charges were untrue, he intended to continue and fight it out. He further said that Finley and Caldwell wanted him to qualify them as medical men, and that he let Helm practice out of pure pity; that all the men mentioned were law breakers and imposing on the community. The above statement was signed by J. P. Parsons.

Witness Henry Johnson, J.P., Coe Hill, swore that he knew Parsons in 1894; that he had attacked him for not imposing a fine on "Dr. Hargrave" and ask him why he had not done so; witness said he had written the College, and the College was no reason why it was not enforced.
Detective Wasson told me not to enforce the law. He also received a letter from Dr.
Parsons attacking his position as Justice of the Peace. About this time the name of McGill, came to lay a complaint against Parsons, the statement being that Dr.
Parsons was called to see him if it was necessary to hold a post mortem on Mrs.
McGill's father, who had died suddenly.
The doctor received $10 for this and said that no P. M. was necessary. Witness told the detective he met this.

Witness Henry Boothby, Coe Hill, who knew a drug store, who he knew he knew the doctor, and that Parsons annoyed him when he lived at Ormsby; he said the doctor wanted him to give up his means of livelihood, that he kept a drug store but was not licensed. A letter dated Dec. 18th, '94, was put in evidence, in which Dr.
Parsons. It read, that Boothby had no right to run a drug store he would have to take out warrants against him and "Dr. Hargrave," "give me a reasonable amount and I will leave the neighborhood." I want you to understand that I make no attempt at blackmail."

A CONDUCTOR INJURED.

A mysterious accident occurred at the G. T. N. York East Crossing.
A mysterious accident occurred at 6:30 last evening at the east end of the G. T.
N. Yorks, by which Conductor Holt, Craig, Brickville, was seriously injured. So far as can be learned Conductor Craig had checked his train, which was ready to leave for the east, and went into the switch shanty to register. As he stepped out of the shanty he slipped on the engine "all right," and he knew nothing more till he came to his senses some time afterward. He was then lying on the south side of the main line, some distance from the shanty.

Mr. Craig called for help and he was soon carried to Wm. Doctor's hotel and Dr. Tracy summoned. The doctor found that his left collar bone was broken, that the left side of his face cut in several places and a contusion on his left temple. The wounded man was made as comfortable as possible and was sent home on the midnight train.

Conductor Craig is one of the best conductors on the road and never takes liquor.
It is supposed he was struck by a locomotive returning to the shops, but some of the employees think that he received a blow from a tramp.

About Cheap Overcoats.

When you can buy a great big heavy ulster, big collar, muff pockets, full length right down to the heels, at the Oak Hall for $5, why pay $7 for the same coat elsewhere?
A cheap overcoat or ulster means getting a good coat for less money. Oak Hall ulsters four colors, only $5.

Belleville Public Library.

Owing to the encouragement received from the City Council and from the public the Directors of the Belleville Public Library have decided to carry on the Institute and it is hoped that it is now on a permanent basis; at least until the question of a free public library is thoroughly discussed and understood. All these new members who promised to take tickets are expected to call for them before the first of November. The one membership fee of $2 covers November and December of 1896 and all of 1897, the day after next a cent a week. This is surely within the reach of all. All the daily and weekly papers and all of the best illustrated periodicals and magazines are on the shelves, while the reference and circulating libraries number nearly four thousand volumes.

Look at This.

What now? Why, the Daily Conservative, for it has its response on Friday, Oct. 30th. Come over, come all.

Couple that with the broadest knowledge of the history market and you have a combination that points to the success of our Hosiery Department.

We are particularly emphatic about this.

We do know the history business thoroughly, know when to buy, what to buy, how much to buy, when to buy.

The results we place before you - practical worth at the smallest possible advance on cost.
